

growing up in AUSTRALIA

Growing up in Australia is such a good thing to do
Now if you listen carefully I'll tell you why that's true.

There's the beach, the pool and the river – all good to cool you down
The flies and mossies in the bush, annoy and make you frown.

Easter, Christmas and New Year - so much to celebrate
Have a barbie, eat some snags - don't forget to bring your mate.

We play sport in the winter and on hot summer's days
And I celebrate my birthday which is the 18th of May.

We help Clean Up Australia, a day we all join in
We pick up lots of rubbish and we chuck it in the bin.

After years of drought and duststorms, the rain finally came
Without the heat and dryness, it's just not the same.

The schools in this country are about my favourite place to be
Because of all the challenging work it's just right for me.

The holidays aren't as good as school but they're not too bad
The part I don't like is when everyone goes mad.

I hope that all this rhyming tells why what I say is true
Growing up in Australia is the best thing you could do.
